

Joseph Smith

for Robert Hayden

After the pearl shines in the last country, a ball of spindles, an iron rod, a dove fashioned from gold plates belonging to me like skin, free as sky, after it brightens the unlit corners; after it is banners, sun, tsunami, grand canyon, undercurrent; after it sears the antipodes and septentrion; after it is more than two missionaries walking from door to door: a vessel, a seer, a primary schoolboy, a wrestler jailed in the Missouri reeds, tarred, seeing salt in distant mountains, in handcarts, in Zion, a mystic steeped in knowledge and burden, a translator shall speak at the bar, and not with Roman toga, not with princes and medals and crisping pins, but with Jesus' arms far extending, his children carrying the asp and lion, New Jerusalem will start to gleam.
