About the Editors

Susan Elizabeth Howe is a poet and an associate professor of English at Brigham Young University. She holds a BA from BYU, an MA from the University of Utah, and a PhD from the University of Denver. Susan's poems have appeared in such journals as The New Yorker, Poetry, and the Southern Review. She has been a contributing editor to Tar River Poetry since 1992 and has completed eleven years as the poetry editor of Dialogue: A Journal of Mormon Thought. Her first collection of poems, Stone Spirits, won the Charles Redd Center Publication Prize in 1997 and the Association for Mormon Letters Award in poetry. Also a playwright, her play Burdens of Earth has been produced twice at Brigham Young University. Susan is married to Cless T. Young and lives in Ephraim, Utah.

Sheree Maxwell Bench is a research associate at the Women's Research Institute at Brigham Young University. She holds a BA and an MA in English from BYU. From 2002 to 2005, she worked as a research historian at the Joseph Fielding Smith Institute. She is involved with a documentary editing project of Emmeline B. Wells's diaries and periodically teaches courses in Mormon women's history and women's studies. She is a member of the Mormon Women's History Initiative Team, a group of scholars from around the United States who encourage historical research on Mormon women. Sheree and her husband, Michael, have four children and four grandchildren.
